

Leftist Semantic Agenda | Activate America

Semantics or the words you choose, have very specific meanings. One example is how the Media uses “Local Police” and “Law Enforcement” interchangeably. Even though they seem similar, they are very different.

Another example of semantics is the Bill of Rights. When the Founding Fathers created the Bill of Rights, they were very specific in their meaning. Now there are those that want to change the wording of the Bill of Rights to suit their own goals.

Today, Arthur R. Thompson will illustrate how semantics in these two examples could cause dire consequences.

Action Items:

1. Like and share this video with others.
2. Learn more about our action project, “Support Your Local Police and Keep Them Independent”.
3. What’s wrong with a Constitutional Convention?
4. Apply for JBS membership and get involved.
5. Sign up for Legislative Action Alerts or text JBS to 800-527-8721