

Power delegated to those in authority is only as good as:

1. Those in authority do so within their limitations
2. Those that have delegated the power to them continue to allow them to do so.

Americans are about at their breaking point with the first one, which means they're acting on the second. We'll look at this interesting relationship in this episode of Activate America, patriotically staying active during COVID-19 lockdown.

Action Items

1. Download Article VI PDF
2. Order Your Slim Jims Today
3. Visit our COVID-19 Action Page for the latest legislative alerts, articles, and videos