

The Marxist Strategy for Police Reform

Lately, even some conservatives are jumping on the bandwagon for a national police force. The idea of nationalizing our local police into a national police, and then placing them under the jurisdiction of the United Nations is the end goal of the communists.

It's time to expose how those on the left and right are trying to eliminate local police. The strategies of the two sides are comparable to that of the classic Tortoise & the Hare story. How? Well, watch this week's Activate America to find out.
