

The Seventh and Eighth Amendments of the Bill of Rights finishes out the sections dealing with general jurisprudence. The 7th Amendment protects the right to a trial by jury in civil court cases. The 8th Amendment insures that the punishment for crimes are not excessive, cruel, or unusual. Join Arthur R. Thompson as he examines both amendments and why they are so important.

Take Action

1. Lecture Series: The Constitution is the Solution
2. Lecture Series: Understand the Bill of Rights
3. Legislative Alerts: Hold your elected officials accountable