

JBS: Leading the Way on Election Integrity

Election integrity has become one the hottest topics in America following the 2020 election, but The John Birch Society has been sounding the alarm on it for decades. For example, JBS founder Robert Welch warned about election fraud in 1976, while The New American was the first publication to advocate for a paper trail in voting equipment. Not only does The John Birch Society identify the problems, but it offers well-thought-out solutions. Join with us today to help restore election integrity.
