

STRAIGHT TALK

MECKLER CONTRADICTS HIS COS

We hear it time and time again that our government is out of control. Many Convention of States proponents argue that the only way to rein in our government is to change or “amend” our Constitution. We know that the real problem is that our elected officials are just blatantly not upholding their Constitutional oath that they each took before assuming office. But will having a Convention of States fix the problem or will it inevitably be an endless cycle of changes?

We discuss this and how you can choose freedom by stopping a constitution convention in this episode of Straight Talk.
