

YouTube's recent censorship policies may seem like a violation of the First Amendment, but since they're a privately owned business, they have a right to censor whatever they please. Unfortunately for us, their guidelines lean way, way left.

☐ Read the Full Article From The New American:

<https://bit.ly/2ToXTq6>

☐ Brush up on the Constitution:

<https://www.jbs.org/constitution-corner>