ELECTION 2020 AFTERMATH

In a monumental race that saw over 90 million Americans vote before election day and perhaps up to an additional 50 million the day of, we need to point out that regardless of how many voted, that there were an additional 100 million Americans who were eligible to vote, but did not.

Early estimates from the U.S. Elections Project show that about 62% of American voters actually cast ballots.

While a Presidential winner has not yet been announced, and the Senate and House still in flux, it's looking more and more like Joe Biden will win, so let's briefly look at this from a perspective of what Americans can do to stop the coming onslaught of big government, in this episode of Analysis Behind the News, where we provide the perspective that you can use to restore American liberty and independence.
